Lost World Gets Rude Awakening

By DENNIS LEE ROYLE

Tezpur, India (P)—The turmoil of war has uprooted a primeval people from a lost world in the Himalayas and plunged it rudely into a new way of life.

More than 1,600 Monpa hillpeople fled before Chinese Communist divisions invading India's northeast frontier district. For many the bedlam of artillery fire and the roar of motorized transport formed their first contact with the outside world.

Among the refugees are 200 Monpa Buddhist monks. They made their way to the village of Dhirang after escaping from Tawang, monastic seat of the Monpas which was captured by the Chinese. In Dhirang the monks continue their devotions, hoping that a turn in the conflict will permit them to return to their home monastery.

Work On Roads

Many of the refugees have been put to work on the winding mountain roads which are in constant need of repair. This provides them a temporary livelihood.

Refugee women and their wide-eyed children move up and down the roads carrying loads of wood. For the children, work is not a new experience. Back in their home village, they had to make themselves useful tending catters and assisting in the monasteries.

Cut off from the outside world for centuries, the Monpas are shy and reserved, but they seem ready to accept the friendship of foreigners. When a Westerner passes a roadside gang, all drop their tools, place their hands as if in prayer and bow their heads in greeting.

Like Tibetans

The Monpas resemble their Tibetan cousins, with high cheek bones and black, plaited hair.

Much of the northeast frontier area, unmapped and unexplored, is called the Hidden Land. Steeped in generations of mythology, its tribes live on mountain slopes and densely wooded valleys.

Of the more than 20 tribes in the area, however, the Monpas were the only civilians directly in the path of the attacking Chinese.

When not busy on the roadside gangs or at their simple chores, the Monpas construct prayer flags. Hundreds of the flags, many 15 feet long, flutter in the cold mountain air.

Buddhist prayers are printed on the flags and the flags are affixed to trees, eaves of monasteries and tall poles. The Buddhists believe the wind will carry their prayers across mountains and valleys to comfort other, less devoted communities.

Stanley Walker, Editor, Writer; Takes Own Life

Lampasas, Tex. (P)—Stanley Walker, one of the nation's best known newspaper editors and magazine writers, died Sunday from a shotgun blast on his ranch near this Southwest Texas town. He was 64.

His body was found in a cabin where he had most of his magazine writing after returning to his native Texas from a brilliant newspaper career in New York City. A shotgun was found nearby.

Justice of the Peace Casper Snell, Police Chief Henry J. Sharp and Dr. Alton A. Bishop of the Rollins-Brook Hospital, Lampasas, were called to the Walker home shortly before noon.

After conferring with Dr. Bishop, Justice of the Peace Snell returned a coroner's verdict of "death by self-inflicted shotgun wounds."

Walker had been in failing health for some time and Saturday there was a report that he was seriously ill with a throat ailment and faced an operation.

In reply to a telephone inquiry Saturday night Walker refused to say he was ill. Asked if he faced an operation, he replied, "No, I wouldn't say that."

Walker died on the ranch where he was born. He used the cabin in which his body was found for his writing headquarters since his return to Texas in 1946. It is only a few yards from his rustic ranch house.

Walker first became nation-

India's Defense Council Spurs Anti-Red Action

New Delhi, India (P)—The new national defense council in its first meeting Sunday named two committees to spur the war effort on the Himalayan front, where a Chinese Communist cease fire is in its 4th day.

With Prime Minister Nehru presiding, the council summoned the nation's leading generals to map the most important group, a 9-member military affairs committee.

Gen. K. S. Thimayya, one of the most respected Indian officers, was named to the committee as was another former commander-in-chief of the army, Gen. Maharaj Rajaendra Singhji. Three chiefs of staff and 3 other senior service officers were appointed.

The 9th member and chairman is Y. B. Chavan, the energetic new defense minister named Oct. 31 to succeed the controversial V. K. Krishna Menon. Menon was blamed for failure to provide adequate arms to meet the Red Chinese invasion.

The second committee of 7 members is assigned to the task of building and guiding the national will to resist the Chinese Communist aggression.

Headed by Home Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri, the committee includes Nehru's daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi. She was in northeast India checking on the progress of the return of civilians who had fled south before the advancing Chinese divisions.

A dispatch from the northeast said Indian army units cut off when the Chinese broke through the Himalayan defenses still are filtering back to the Indian lines. Other Indian troops were regrouping and were alert for any new Chinese thrust, the dispatch said.

Though Indian patrols tacitly observed the Peking-inspired truce, the Indian government sniped verbally at Red China. A spokesman accused Premier Chou En-lai's regime of causing confusion in the border dispute with statements that have no relation to reality.

Military chiefs of U.S. and British missions flew to northeast India for an on-the-spot study of the war and discussions with Indian commanders concerning additional equipment and supplies that this nation wants from the western powers.

U.S. Gen. Paul D. Adams and Gen. Sir Richard Hull, chief of Britain's imperial general staff, were accompanied by Indian officers on a flight to Tezpur, a north Assam city 30 miles from communist lines in the Himalayan foothills.

They planned to confer with Lt. Gen. B. M. Kaul, the Indian commander, and tour some advanced areas. Other Western officers visited Indian air force stations.

The military teams are offering advice out of experience of fighting the Chinese Korea as well as studying material needs of the battered Indian armed forces.

Chief diplomats of the missions — U.S. Assistant Secretary of State W. Averell Harriman and British Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys — had separate meetings with India's finance minister, Morarji Desai.

3 COLONELS FLEE BY AIR

... After Commie Takeover Fails

Guatemala City, Guatemala (UPI)—Troops loyal to President Miguel Ydígoras Fuentes squelched an air force revolt Sunday after 3 hours of fierce air-to-ground fighting. The government blamed the revolt on "Castro Communists."

At least two civilians were killed, and scores were injured.

The presidency announced that the 3 principal chiefs of the abortive revolt fled by airplane, probably to El Salvador. All were air force colonels.

For nearly 3 hours 5 Mustang fighters and 3 medium bombers made repeated bombing and strafing swoops over infantry garrisons in and around the capital, police headquarters and the presidential residence.

One Downed

A statement from the presidency said anti-aircraft guns had shot down one of the insurgent fighter planes.

The statement said "Castro Communists" organized the revolt and were able to obtain support only from the air force. It warned them the government is "ready to repel any other attempt to disrupt public order."

The government also warned that any radio station which broadcasts "tendentious" news will be closed. It ordered radio and cable companies to submit outgoing press dispatches to the government.

Cuba Bribes

President Ydígoras charged in a television speech Sunday night that the rebels were bribed by money brought to Guatemala from Cuba. He said many Guatemalan Communists live in exile in Cuba, plotting against his regime, and as a result, "we are going to authorize the establishment of a free Cuban government in Guatemala."

He said the "few officers" who accepted the bribes arrested the chiefs of the air forces Sunday.

"Planes took off, strafing the presidential residence and military barracks. We planned with military chiefs to control the rebellion and bomb the military airport, without destroying the airstrip, but giving this very impression to the rebellious officers."

"We were so accurate that the pilots chose to leave, and some took asylum, in view of the fact that no support was given them by the military forces," he added.

The 3 rebel chiefs, who is-Scottsbluff (P)—Harry J. Wisner, founder and publisher of the Scottsbluff Daily Star-Herald through most of its 50 year history, died Sunday night at his home. He was 87.

Wisner had been in failing health for several years.

He had served as editor emeritus the past 10 years, having been succeeded in managerial duties by his son, Floyd C. Wisner.

'Specific Holding Actions Better'

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

A man who believes all-out holdings actions have served their purpose and advocates confining future actions to specific commodities and areas is seeking the National Farmers Organization's presidency. He is Harold Woodward of Bethany, Mo.

He led NFO resistance to the Committee on Economic Development. At the national level, he has personally signed NFO members identify Woodward as "a man quick to recognize new ideas to further the cause of the farmer and rancher."

Woodward has called for strengthened state organizations. He feels much of the work for agriculture must be done in local communities and on America's main streets.

"If a farmer fails in telling his story to his business friend," Woodward said, "he has no business going farther, but once this goal is accomplished, he is then ready for a unified expression of opinion from our nation's capital."

Dairyman Explains Fallout In Milk

"Fallout and the Dairy Industry" is the subject of a talk given at recent district meetings of the American Dairy Association by T. A. Evans.

Following is an abridged version of the text used by the University of Nebraska extension dairy marketing specialist:

"Publicity has connected radioactive fallout with our milk supply. This has come about due to public health officials' using milk as a 'measuring stick' to determine the amount of fallout in our food supply."

"It is not true, however, that milk or other dairy foods are necessarily more susceptible to radioactive fallout than other foods."

"There are two radioactive elements important to the dairy industry. One is iodine 131, the other strontium 90. Iodine 131 has a half-life of only 8 days, strontium 90 a half-life of 28 years."

"If these two elements ever become a problem as a result of atomic war, it will be necessary to use different methods to combat them. For instance, iodine 131 could be dealt with in two ways:

"Fresh milk contaminated with this element could be diverted to dairy product manufacturing plants where it could be made into butter and non-fat dry milk or cheese. These can be stored. At the end of a few weeks or months, depending on degree of contamination, the radioactive iodine would have virtually disappeared, and the dairy foods would be perfectly safe."

"Another way is to feed cows on 'aged' feed. The theory here is that feed stored for several months will have a low level of iodine 131 and, therefore, will not contaminate the milk of animals consuming it.

Tried, Practical

"Both of these methods have been tried and found to be practical. On the other hand, if milk should be contaminated with strontium 90, these methods will not be effective. Obviously, even products such as cheese, butter and non-fat dry milk cannot be kept for the time necessary for radioactivity to decay."

The solutions are:

"Either prevent its getting into milk through protecting cows and feed from fallout;

"Or remove it from milk."

"Fallout shelters for cows and feed are probably not very practical. Methods have been perfected to remove strontium 90, but not too practical yet. Additional research is being done, and a practical method may eventually be discovered."

"The effect of an atomic explosion with which we are most concerned is radiation, a terrible and fearsome thing."

"Radiation is of two types, initial and residual."

"Initial radiation would affect relatively few people."

"Residual radiation is carried by wind into the atmosphere and may come down miles away, weeks or even years later. This is the type of most concern in the dairy industry."

"There are two ways we receive this radiation. It may fall on us and enter our bodies directly, or it may fall on our food and water and be taken in this way. Either way damages our bodies if the quantity is great enough."

Same Way Cow

"The dairy cow receives radioactive material in the same way. It falls directly on her hide, on feed and forage she consumes, into water she drinks. She disposes of it through the feces, the urine and the milk."

"It is this part she excretes through her milk with which dairymen are concerned. Fortunately the dairy cow has a 'discrimination factor' — another way of saying the dairy cow strains out a large part of the strontium 90 she takes in."

"Apparently about 90% is excreted in feces and urine, only about 10% in milk. The human body also has a 'discrimination factor' — only about the strontium 90 taken into the body is deposited in the bones."

95% Strained

"At any rate, it appears that between cow and human body, about 95% of the strontium 90 is strained out before it can do any damage."

"This is a very powerful argument for maintaining or even increasing our daily milk consumption."

"First, if we consume cereal grains directly, the human body would be the only 'strainer' and apparently about 25% of the strontium 90 would find its way to our bones. Secondly, milk and dairy foods supply about 75-80% of the calcium in the normal diet."

"We would be foolish to reduce consumption of milk and other dairy foods."

"Briefly, this is part of the story of radioactive fallout and the food supply."

By Glenn Kreuscher, Farm Editor

While the number of farms goes down, the farm-accident rate climbs with farm fatalities out of proportion to the farm population, according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture report.

The USDA gives these reasons for what is happening in farm accidents:

One reason for the continuing high death rate is the increasing average age of farm people.

Another reason is that farms are becoming more isolated and with less opportunity for an injured person to obtain first aid promptly.

Another factor is increased travel of the farmer with his equipment on the highway as he increases the size of his operation.

The National Grange in a major policy statement at the close of its 96th annual session told farmers:

"Farm production must either be brought into line with demand or government programs to support prices of farm products must be terminated," a resolution unanimously adopted by the delegates from 38 states declared.

The Grange warned against "trying to solve the farm problem by pushing the people off the land and onto relief rolls" in large cities.

Cole voices disappointment that the McClelland report considered only property taxes levied by the state.

"In my judgment a plan which goes further than replacing general property taxes at the state level would be of limited usefulness and would not, in any sense, solve the tax problem in Nebraska," says Cole.

The Kansas Wheat Growers Association has endorsed a billion-bushel strategic reserve of wheat and recommended the program's cost be charged to national defense in the public interest and not to cost farm programs.

The resolution read: "In view of current world conditions we urge that action be taken to assure a strategic reserve of wheat amounting to approximately one billion bushels for the purpose of national defense."

A farm credit official has some optimistic news for American farmers.

Don H. Bushnell, deputy governor and director of Land Bank service for the Farm Credit Administration, says farm credit costs are not likely to go up and may even come down in the next 5 years.

This is in contrast to the

FARM ECONOMIST SEES 'FIRM UNDERPINNINGS'

"There appears to be a firm underpinning in the U.S. economy but no indication of a strong expansion in demand next year," according to a University of Nebraska extension farm economist.

The scheduled rise in government purchases (federal, state and local) is expected to be the major expansionary influence in the economy next year," said Fred Olson who just returned from the National Outlook Conference in Washington, D.C.

"Purchases by the federal government in 1963 may total 4 to 4.5 billion above 1962. Most of the increase will be due to increased spending for national security and space activities."

'63 Acceleration

"The upturn in expenditures by state and local governments will continue and may accelerate some in 1963. Growing demand for schools, hospitals, roads and other facilities, and services are expected to result in a spending increase of more than 4.5 billion. This combined government purchases of goods and services in 1963 may total 8 to 9 billion above this year," Olson said.

"Prospective increases in economic activity, under present programs, suggest some further rise in government revenues in the calendar year 1963. But expenditures are expected to increase more rapidly than revenues."

"The aggregate expenditures by business and consumers are likely to move moderately upward throughout 1963. With government purchases also rising, total gross national production can be expected to move ahead moderately next year; but present indications are that demand for durable goods will continue to be relatively sluggish."

Complications Of Times

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

"Living in a glass house isn't always all it's cracked up to be." That sort of opening to a story appearing in the Christian Science Monitor led us to believe that the following account was to be a humorous one. It had some humor, all right, but it was not exactly intended. It seems funny, for instance, that people would walk into glass doors but such a fact has caused concern among the building trade and the Federal Housing Administration.

Cited as an outstanding example are the glass doors which lead from the living room area of the home out onto a patio. Apparently a great many children and adults have been charging through these doors at considerable expense from both a fiscal and physical point of view. New FHA regulations will go into effect in April of 1963, calling for some kind of safety glass for all exterior doors. New standards will be set up, too, for big picture windows to avoid wind breakage, another problem said to be a part of the trend toward more use of glass.

But while no humor was intended, one could hardly help but chuckle at the thought of someone's walking into a glass door. This is the kind of thing used in animated cartoons to get a laugh out of the children. The use of glass doors really marks quite a change in things. In years gone by, families used to want privacy as well as good circulation but are concerned about neither now.

The doors were always wooden and had what was known as a transom above them. The transom was actually just a hinged window. Apparently its purpose was to permit the family to close a door for privacy and open the transom for ventilation. It was probably glass simply for appearance's sake.

The transom was disliked for one reason—it had to be cleaned—and liked for another. The children always thought the transom was a magnificent thing. With the door closed, the children could still climb up on a chair, a table or something else and see as well as hear what was going on in the room with the closed door. And now that it can be looked back on, it cannot be remembered that anything unfit for our ears was ever heard. What we probably learned were a few secrets such as what was planned for our birthday or what were the choices for presents at Christmas. At first, you might wonder how your parents could be so naive as to think the youngsters were not taking advantage of the transom. But on second thought, you know that your own children are probably wondering the same thing about you today under some different set of circumstances.

Remarkable Opportunity

The estimable publication of the Nebraska Game, Forestry and Parks commission, namely, Outdoor Nebraska, has rounded out another year of publication with its December edition.

Several thousand lucky individuals as usual got their big 25 cents worth, for that is the over-the-counter price for the magazine. The content is always of absorbing interest with a variety of subjects nicely written.

The great fault of the magazine is not in its editors, but in a state which fails to regard its possibilities both as a contribution to America and to the State of Nebraska as a public relations instrument. In short, it is a starveling magazine because someone doesn't know how to make money by spending a little.

Fountain Of Youth

Legend used to be the place for the fountain of youth but science has changed all of this. The scientist today does not speak of any fountain of youth as such but he does speak openly and optimistically of old age as a human affliction for which a cure might conceivably be found. He sees no eternity for men here on earth but he sees life expectancy and health spread far beyond their limits of today.

The expanding horizon of science is well illustrated in a booklet explaining The Salk Institute for Biological Studies being constructed at San Diego, Calif., under the auspices of The National Foundation. The booklet is an explanation aimed at enlisted the financial support of the American people for this unique undertaking.

It is unique, too, because it represents a new kind of daring. The institute will be staffed by biologists, physicists, mathematicians and a wide variety of other scientists.

New Satellites Rival Telstar

launched in January — both under the auspices of the National Space Agency.

Of these, the most intriguing and the cheapest appears to be Syncrom. It will reach an altitude of 22,300 miles and will orbit with the same speed as the earth, thereby making it, in effect, stationary.

Syncrom will cost less because only three satellites will be launched as against 40 for AT&T's Telstar. While Telstar will operate at a lower altitude of only 7,000 miles, it will require very expensive and elaborate ground signal stations.

However, Hughes' Syncrom has some drawbacks, chiefly a 30-second lag during which the human voice goes up 22,300 miles, then down 22,300 miles. This may have the advantage of preventing a wife from interrupting her husband during a phone call between New York and Paris, for the wife will have to wait 30 seconds after she says something for her husband on the other end of the line to answer. But for a rapid-fire, give-and-take conversation, it may not be efficient.

The Syncrom system also has a voice echo, which can probably be ironed out. All this indicates some of the minor obstacles in working out this revolutionary new system of communications.

JFK Maneuvers For Tax Reform

benefits his background in a conservative state and the comforting facts that for 10 out of his 11 terms in the House he has had no political opposition.

The public has not been educated to the use of a tax cut as a device to stimulate the economy. The economists understand this, Mills points out, but not the voters. The deficit for the current fiscal year of $7.8 billion, as announced by the Treasury, will further dampen popular support for cutting revenue.

What is more, the chairman of the Ways and Means Committee has taken note of a market improvement in the fourth quarter of the calendar year. Reports he has received indicate that the increase in the gross national product over the third quarter will be $5 billion. This can mean that the rate for the year could reach $560 billion, which compares with the estimates of the administration's economic soothsayers a year ago of $570 billion or even $575 billion. The Treasury experts are putting their guess on $553 billion to $555 billion.

GUGLIELMO MARCONI

Profiles In Science

In the 1860s, scientists first became aware of invisible electromagnetic waves in space. Today they're called radio waves.

These waves were investigated and studied by several scientists, but an Italian inventor, Guglielmo Marconi (1874-1937), was the first man to employ them successfully in commerce.

From early boyhood Marconi took great interest in electricity and magnetism, and when he was only 21 he already had decided he could put the invisible waves to practical use.

Their practical use obviously was communication, and it was to radio—called "wireless telegraphy"—that Marconi applied his genius.

His first experiments were done at his family's country estate near Bologna, Italy, and the young inventor was able to send wireless messages a distance of a mile.

From then on his progress was rapid, and the distances over which he could send wireless messages increased correspondingly.

He took out a British patent for his wireless in 1896, showing considerably more business sense than some inventors who have worked with electricity.

Marconi's demonstrations for the British government first were over short distances—two, four, nine and 12 miles. In 1898 the first radio messages were sent across the English Channel, and in fleet maneuvers of the Royal Navy, radio was used to communicate between ships 74 miles apart.

The next year radio was used for the first time to save lives in a sea disaster. A lifeboat station on the English shore was notified by radio of a collision at sea, and the lifeboats were sent out to save the crew of the lighter vessel. The first military use of Marconi's radio was during the Boer War when the British used it to transmit field orders.

In 1901 the first radio message was sent across the Atlantic from Cornwall to Newfoundland. Wireless messages directly to the United States from England soon followed.

Bonus Questioned

Lincoln, Neb.

I am a little curious to know how the Board of Regents of the University of Nebraska have the right to hand out $80,000 of the taxpayers' money as a bonus to the contractors of the Twin Towers 900-unit dormitory project. It would seem that the Board of Regents should be familiar with the needs of the university and are at fault in not placing a completion date in the contract when advertising for bids.

They note that parents outside of Lincoln sending their children, particularly daughters, to the university want and expect university housing, feeding arrangement and supervision. Students in general also prefer the university—housing for its convenience and for the close association with other students.

The state of Nebraska has a good labor market with plenty of available help in all fields, etc. Therefore, if the contractors are able to complete the project by the time limit wished by the board with a bonus, they can complete it without it.

It is assumed that the bonus will be used for overtime pay. As has been pointed out, there is plenty of help available and if necessary, two shifts could be worked. Every contractor allows for delays, hard luck, extra expenses such as overtime pay, etc., when figuring a bid.

Lincoln has an abundant supply of rooms, apartments, cafes and houses and has had for sometime, now. The university was set up as an institution of learning and its intended purposes should not include going into the hotel and restaurant business.

I get a slow burn and a darn good one when I see things like this in the newspaper. I can name at least 50 people on pensions and social security who are scrimping along trying to live on their meager incomes who don't know what it is to eat good Nebraska beef and Grade A milk that we are so proud of. Things like these $80,000 bonuses are the reason why we have to have old people's homes, federal aid in medicine, and why the old people can't have their own homes and can't themselves secure the medical attention they need.

There was a time when a man running for office got up and said: "If I am elected, I will represent you. I will save you taxes and have your interests at heart." And nine times out of 10, he did.

In a nice way they tell us now, "I will do this and do that," which means, "I will spend your money." And believe me, they do.

I do not think that anyone in any office has the right to hand out a sum of $80,000 without public approval.

C. ALLEN GARDNER

Editor's Note: University officials note that the purpose of the bonus offering is to get completion of the dormitory in question in time for next fall's classes. They point out that some 150 young women this year have cancelled their registration because no university housing was available.

They note that parents outside of Lincoln sending their children, particularly daughters, to the university want and expect university housing, feeding arrangement and supervision. Students in general also prefer the university—housing for its convenience and for the close association with other students.

May I add my congratulations to the many on the re-election of Governor Frank B. Morrison. He has proven the worth and accomplishment of his first administration and the people of Nebraska have expressed their confidence in the work he has accomplished in the last two years. We have seen Nebraska move ahead in industrial growth, agricultural production, tourism, and road construction, to mention just a few of the areas. And now we can look forward to an even more progressive administration that is very much in tune with the needs and capabilities of the state of Nebraska.

I offer my best wishes to the Morrison administration for a job well done, and wish the governor every success in his incumbency.

Off THE RECORD

The Hague (UPI) — Reliable sources said that the Netherlands and Indonesia are expected to resume diplomatic relations on the charge d'affaires level by Dec. 1.

It has been raining for two weeks now in Rio de Janeiro, much to the sadness of the tourist agencies. Much to the disgust of the native Cariocans. The native of Rio welcomes the sunny day.

"Too hot to work today he says. He goes off and lies on Copacabana beach."

This infuriates the hard-working people of Sao Paulo. The Chicago of South America is only an hour's flight south. The cities are as different as say, Mobile, Alabama and Detroit.

At present, the industries of Sao Paulo are supporting Brazil. And Brazil is broke as a payday soldier after a barracks crap game.

Living costs in Rio went up some 72 per cent in the last year. Even with Government ceiling prices on rent and some food.

Hardly anybody pays taxes. Imported goods cost so much to bring in that everything is smuggled. (American cars are brought in pieces. Reassembled in bootleg garages. Chevrolet on the regular market would cost about $5000.)

It takes at least 10 years to get a telephone. There are 200,000 on the waiting list.

W. Lincoln Zone Plan Proposes 2 Divisions

The West Lincoln board of trustees will vote on a proposed zoning code at its Dec. 3 meeting.

The 22-page ordinance basically would divide the village of some 500 residents into two zoning districts: (1) residential and (2) local business and light industry.

Under state law, West Lincoln can establish zoning districts for the village and the area within one-half mile of its limits.

However, Lincoln's zoning powers within 3 miles of its

Pink 'Don't' May Stop Pedestrians

Harrisburg (AP) — The city of Harrisburg has decided to add another twist to its experimental "Leave Curb — Don't Leave Curb" pedestrian lights.

Liquor Limited

Taverns and liquor stores would be permitted only in the business district. Generally, only single-family dwellings would be in residential districts.

The code also would regulate curb cuts, off-street parking, outdoor advertising signs, building setbacks and use of streets.

A Board of Adjustments would hear and act upon any application for zoning changes and other variations.

Previously the experimental lights had been all white. But soon the "Don't" portion of the light will flash on in color.

"We must find bulbs that will stand the strain first," said Lt. Oscar Ernst of the traffic engineering bureau. "And right now, I don't know what color the bulbs will be. They may be pink."

MIKOYAN SAYS . . .

Cause Of Cuba, Cause Of Soviet

Havana (UPI)—Soviet First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan told the Cuban people Sunday night in a nationwide television appearance that the cause of Cuba is the cause of the Soviet Union."

Mikoyan, whose prolonged visit here was largely shrouded in government news blackouts, bid farewell over the television and radio networks following a brief public appearance at Havana's Central Park, where he laid a hammer and sickle wreath on the statue of Cuban patriot Jose Marti.

Mikoyan, who came here Nov. 2 at the height of the Cuban crisis and stayed 23 days, was scheduled to fly to New York Monday at 10 a.m. Translated Mikoyan spoke in Russian. An aide translated into Spanish. He recalled his first visit to Cuba in 1960 and said he considered it "a great honor as a Soviet leader to visit your country a second time."

He said Premier Fidel Castro had set the tone for his talks here even before his arrival when he said they would be on "government to government level."

Mikoyan told Cubans his talks with Cuban leaders were concluded on a note "of mutual confidence and with

MRS. McCULLOUGH . . . with children.

Baby Sitter Sues City ... TIRED OF BEING BOthered

Cleveland (AP) — Twice in two years city officials have told a 69-year-old widow to stop baby-sitting 15 youngsters aged 3-5 at her home, saying she's violating zoning laws by operating a day nursery.

But Mrs. Ruth C. McCullough, whose court-reporter husband died in 1934 and who has been engaged in her mass baby-sitting business since 1948, isn't going to stop. She says that according to municipal ordinance, a day nursery is a place where children are received for periods of not less than 4 hours and she never keeps them longer than 4 hours.

Furthermore, Mrs. McCullough wants the city to stop bothering her with threats of charges and prosecution and brought suit to this end. It will be heard Dec. 14.

"I've been baby-sitting since 1948," Mrs. McCullough said. "Some of the children I've had are going to high

According to Hesser, the man made advances toward the girl and tried to get the boy into his car. Their mother was working at the time, but the youngster managed to flee and call her.

Russia Still Conducting Tests Despite Statement

Geneva (UPI) — Western sources said Sunday Russia tests at the rate of one every two days despite Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's recent statement that the Soviet tests would end by Nov. 20.

The Western report darkened the mood among diplomats on the eve of the resumption of the 17-nation disarmament negotiations here.

In Moscow there was no comment on the Western report that Soviet tests were continuing. A Moscow radio commentator, referring to the resuming talks, said "it is the turn of the Western powers to speak up."

Khrushchev told newsmen at a Kremlin reception Nov. 7 that Russia's latest series of tests would end Nov. 20. But Western sources said Sunday they now expect the Soviet tests to continue at least until mid-December.

A nuclear test ban will have top priority in the disarmament negotiations resuming here Monday after a 10-week recess. During the recess, the questions of nuclear tests and general disarmament were debated at the United Nations in New York.

Government Forces Slay 109 Commies

... IN VIET NAM

Saigon, Viet Nam (UPI) — Government forces killed 109 Communist guerrillas, including two battalion commanders, in a sharp predawn battle Sunday near the border of North Viet Nam, military sources reported.

The casualty figure was extraordinarily high for the Vietnamese civil war. Major assaults involving thousands of men frequently result in no more than a dozen enemy casualties.

A military spokesman said government forces suffered 14 wounded and no dead in the engagement, 50 miles south of Danang.

A Viet Cong company commander, one staff officer, 5 platoon leaders and a large quantity of arms and ammunition were reported captured. U.S. military sources saying they had independent confirmation of the death toll, described the operation as one of the most successful this year.

A military spokesman said two Viet Cong battalions struck the outposts of Phuc Chia and Phuc Lam at 3 a.m. Sunday. The outposts were manned by two government battalions supported by 105-MM howitzers. The defenders, the spokesman said, turned the tables on the attackers and routed them.

The problem of medical and hospital care for the aged can best be met through existing law, including the Kerr-Mills bill, which takes care of the "near-needy" and through the channels of private insurance," he said.

PRESIDENT TO VISIT MILITARY UNITS

Hyannis Port, Mass. (UPI) — President John F. Kennedy, winding up a long weekend with Thanksgiving at his father's home, sets out Monday to visit military units sent to the southeast in the Cuban crisis.

The President will spend almost 12 hours away from the White House on the military tour to bases and other installations in Florida and Georgia.

Among other places, he'll stop at Key West, Fla., only 90 miles from Cuba.

The President and Mrs. Kennedy attended the 10 o'clock mass at St. Francis Xavier Church in nearby Hyannis, and despite chilly weather, a crowd gathered in the church yard to see them arrive and depart. Mrs. Kennedy wore a fuchsia coat and a black lace veil.

The President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, and his wife went to mass an hour earlier, and then took some of the young Kennedys, including the President's daughter, Caroline, out skating.

They went to the Joseph P. Kennedy Jr. Memorial Skating Rink, an outdoor facility given to the town by the family in memory of the brother killed in World War II. Only they and their guests were allowed in since it was before official opening hour.

Later other Kennedys joined them; brother Ted, who just got elected to the U.S. Senate from Massachusetts, and two brothers-in-law, Sargent Shriver and Stephen Smith.

Suburbia Never Lacks For Fun

HAPPY HOLLOW HEIGHTS

It's Monday morning, the weekend is over, but there is still Thanksgiving news from Suburbia!

In Happy Hollow Heights, so we hear, Mr. and Mrs. Lester W. Halvorsen and their son, Neal, entertained Mrs. Halvorsen's parents on the holiday. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Howarth, of Tecumseh, arrived in Lincoln early Thursday to spend Thanksgiving here. They returned to their home the same day.

And leaving Lincoln after a week's visit just before Thanksgiving was Miss China Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest E. Ellis. Miss Ellis, who is now working in Atlanta, Ga., where she resides with her brother, Barry Ellis, returned to Lincoln for a brief visit with her parents and brother, Daryl.

And lest we forget, people still are having birthdays! Miss Barbara Hartman, daughter of Mrs. Esther Hartman, celebrated hers last week at a surprise party given by her mother at their home.

Afternoon Wedding

The wedding of Miss Mary Eloise Beiers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius L. Beiers of Langdon, N.D., and Gerald N. Siegel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris D. William Pomeroy of Omaha served as best man, and seating the guests was Gerald Beiers of Garrison, N.D., brother of the bride.

The bride chose for her wedding a gown of white peau d'ange touched with Alencon lace. The long-sleeved basque was designed with a cameo neckline edged with petal appliques of the lace, and the applique motif was repeated on the voluminous skirt, which was completed at the back by an obi drape and extended into an aisle-wide train. A queen's crown of pearls held her illusion veil, and she carried gardenias and pink sweet-heart roses showered with stephanotis.

The couple will live in Carmichael, Calif. A graduate of the University of North Dakota, the bride is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. Mr. Siegel is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and received his Masters degree at the University of California in Berkeley. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi.

The bidding:

North East South West
1 ♠ 2 ♣ 4 NT 5 ♣
Dble. Pass 6 ♦ Dble.
Pass Pass Redble.

Opening lead — ace of diamonds.

This dramatic hand occurred in the match between Great Britain and the United States during the Ladies Championship played in Turin in 1960.

When the British were North-South, the bidding went as shown. The colorful Rixi Markus, generally regarded as Europe's top woman player, bid six hearts and then redoubled when she got doubled.

As can be seen, Mrs. Markus should have gone down one. However, she actually made the slam and scored 1,570 points instead of going minus 200.

How this came about is quite understandable. The American West led the ace of diamonds and East signaled with the eight. West led another diamond and that was the end of that. Mrs. Markus made the rest of the tricks.

Obviously, a club shift would have done the job, but this was a difficult play for West to make. East's overcall might have been based on a six-card suit, in which case a club switch could prove fatal. Furthermore, East's signal in diamonds commanded a diamond and not a shift to clubs.

The fault, if any, must be charged to East. A good case can be made for East to play the two of diamonds, not the eight. True enough, this would seemingly deny the king, but East should fear that a diamond continuation might be ruffed.

East's best prospect is to win a club trick. She had overcalled with only a five-card suit and could have had six. East can reason that if West has four clubs, a club shift would become impossible, but that if West has three clubs, a club shift is mandatory.

On this basis, West would continue a diamond, despite the deuce, if she was looking at four clubs in her hand, but not if she had three. The reasoning is complicated, but quite sound.

At the second table, the American North-South pair bid and made five hearts for a good result, since East-West could have made six clubs or diamonds.

Why Grow Old?

'Poor Aching Back' Unfunny

Josephine Lowman

"My poor aching back" may be just a funny phrase to those who never have a backache but to some it denotes real trouble. Nagging constant discomfort, whether a headache, backache, neckache, pains in the legs or eye strain, takes the sunshine out of daily living.

Even if it is just a dull ache rather than real pain and even if the cause is not serious, such a condition is extremely fatiguing. Any one of the above ailments can make one feel tired all over and spoil much of the pleasure in living.

This is to say nothing of what these pains do to the disposition! It is pretty difficult to remain gay and gracious when being nicked at all the time by even a minor discomfort. Many otherwise good relationships have been ruined this way.

Human nature is stoic in times of real distress but also in matters which could be corrected. People often just take such "minor" pains for granted as a part of life without even investigating the cause!

Any chronic condition should be checked since the cause can be serious. However, most often the remedy is simple. For instance backache can come from poor posture which places a strain on ligaments and muscles. It may come from weak fallen arches. It may be due to prolapsus, dropping of internal organs or a displaced uterus, or overweight may be the culprit.

Many conditions can cause a headache, such as an allergy, a sinus infection or eye strain. If you have head pains, don't allow them to handicap you any longer. Find out why!

To review good posture . . . Hold your abdomen in, your spine straight and push toward the ceiling with the top of your head.

To keep that good posture, plus acquire some poised balance, try this exercise:

Stand erect. Take hold of a belt or a broom stick, holding one end in each hand with the stick BEHIND THE BODY. Feet should be a good distance apart. Bend the trunk forward swinging the arms backward with straight elbows and rising on the toes. Careful, don't fall forward on your nose the first time you try this.

Just a NEIGHBOR
DEAR NEIGHBOR: No, you are not wrong. The mother is doing her son a great disservice. Perhaps you should become friendlier with the mother and tell her in a nice way to separate the boy from the curls.

DEAR ABBY: Although I am only 15, I am the "Dear Abby" of our block. I've helped many girls (and boys) with their problems, but here is one that has me stumped. A girl (my age) is madly in love with my brother. He is 17 and he can't stand her. This girl tells me she can't sleep or eat for thinking about him. She says he's not good-looking, but she is an emotional wreck over him. I told her she might as well forget him, but she says she can't. If she knew how my brother really felt about her she would die. How can I help this girl?

"DEAR ABBY OF WASHINGTON STREET"

DEAR "DEAR ABBY": Your advice was exactly what mine would have been. To give her false hope would be cruel. Tell her to focus her attention elsewhere because your brother likes her "as a friend" and nothing more.

It is a practical game that will give you a message every day. It is a numbered grid designed to spell out your fortune. The letters in your first name, if the number of letters is 4 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 4, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures gives. # Last-Place Mets Finally Get The Chance To Be First Rochester, N.Y. (AP) — The New York Mets finally get a chance to be first Monday when they lead off the annual minor league player draft as the baseball meetings open.

First pick in the draft is the booby prize that always goes to the team that finishes last. The Mets qualified, hands down, by losing 120 games and finishing 60½ games behind San Francisco.

George Weiss, the president of the Mets, used to pass up the draft when he was with the talent-loaded New York Yankees. Now that he is with the "have-nots," Weiss has been scanning the player lists for weeks.

Last year at Tampa 35 were drafted for a total of $60,000.

Somewhere, hidden in the 36-page mimeographed sheets from the office of Commissioner Ford Frick, there may be some players who will help the 20 major league teams. About 2,100 players are eligible to be drafted, about 1,400 at the regular price of $25,000 each. The others are first-year men, who can be selected for $12,000 if signed before last Dec. 3 or $8,000 each if signed after that date.

Naturally the first-year stockpile represents a considerable investment by the 20 major league teams. The players who got so much money that they couldn't be risked in the draft have been moved up to the parent clubs along with the outstanding prospects. But the big league clubs, whose 40-man rosters may be loaded, have to take a chance with some who cost them plenty.

Incidentally, there is considerable fussing about the so-called bonus rule that was adopted last year in an attempt to cut down on spending. Various amendments have been offered to tighten or loosen the rule, according to the thinking of the respective owners. That will come up for a vote Thursday at the executive session of the National Association (Minors).

Even more important to the minors is a proposal to reorganize the entire minor league by entering into a player development contract. The majors then would undergo at least 100 minor league clubs which will be reshuffled into only 3 categories—Triple

A, Double A and Class A. There will be no more Class B, C or D leagues.

Both the bonus plans and the reorganization must be approved by the minors Thursday and by the majors next Saturday in New York.

The Mets may decide to pick Allan Worthington, veteran former major leaguer, who had a good year at Indianapolis in the American Association. There is a wide range of talent available, ranging from shop-shopworn items like Jim Rivera to fuzzy-cheeked kids who have just played their first year.

Younger Players

Among the younger players some of the most interesting include: outfielder Ed Burda and first baseman Kerry Don McDaniel of Atlanta, pitcher Roger Sinner and shortstop Gil Garrido of Tacoma, pitcher Bobby Locke and first baseman Cal Emery at Little Rock, outfielder Howie Bedell at Toronto, shortstop

Elder White and pitcher Tony Balsamo at Salt Lake City, infielder Charley Kell Jr., and Ron Boyer, at Richmond, pitcher Jim Donohue and infielder Sandy Valdespino and outfielder Lamar Jacobs at Vancouver, infielders Jack Kubiszyn and Jim Mahoney at Jacksonville, outfielder Jim Kornanda at Indianapolis, first baseman Don Gile at Seattle and pitchers Jim Lehew and Billy Short at Rochester.

When the draft is finished, the owners are expected to get their heads together on some more deals. St. Louis has been the most active club so far, bolstering their infield with shortstop Dick Groat of Pittsburgh and their outfield with George Altman of the Chicago Cubs, and their bullpen with Diomedes Olivo of Pittsburgh.

Boston sent pitcher Don Schwall and catcher Jim Pagliarini to Pittsburgh for first baseman Dick Stuart and pitcher Jack Lamabe. The Pirates picked up pitcher Don Cardwell and shortstop Julio Gotay from St. Louis in addition to Schwall and Pagliarini. The Cubs added pitchers Larry Jackson and relief man Lindy McDaniel and catcher Jim Schaffer.

The inter-league trading continues until midnight Dec. 15.

International Loop Nixes AA Merger

Rochester, N.Y. (AP) — The International League notified the American Association Sunday night it was not interested in merging to form a new 12-team league under the present setup.

Tommy Richardson, president of the International League, said his organization was willing to take over 4 working agreements from the association and form a 12-club International League with northern and southern divisions.

Richardson said his league would like to align Toronto, Rochester, Syracuse, Buffalo, Columbus and Indianapolis in a northern group and Atlanta, Jacksonville, Richmond, Dallas-Fort Worth, Oklahoma City and Little Rock in a southern group.

Jim Burris, president of the American Association, said, "We did not go to the International League with hat in hand. I feel sure we can operate with 6 clubs."

Burris said a group from Omaha headed by Bruce Woodward was interested in operating a club in that city if it could get a working agreement.

—NEBRASKA IS SURPRISE CLUB OF BIG 8 RACE—

Just As In Old Days---Sooners On Top

By DON BRYANT
Star Sports Editor

Thanks to the Missouri-Kansas tie and Oklahoma's 34-6 victory over Nebraska, a lot of Big 8 nail-biting occurred this week.

It's all over — and just about as predicted.

Oklahoma, once again, is on top — the Sooners have now won 10 consecutive conference games and will be favored to make it 11 this week against cross-state rival Oklahoma State — while Missouri, the pre-season favorite, skipped in second.

Biggest surprise, of course, were the Nebraska Cornhuskers. Unquestionably the comeback club of the year, Bob Devaney's Scarlets wound up in 3rd place with a 5-2 record — a vast improvement over the 2-5 and 6th place tie ranking in 1961.

OU Can Match

Overall, the Huskers were 8-2, also a sensational change of stature from the 3-6 performance a year ago. Only Oklahoma can match the Nebraska season mark, if the Sooners beat the Cowboys in their vendetta Saturday as expected.

Missouri finished with a 5-1 conference mark and 7-12 overall.

Actually the final standings present a relatively true picture of the conference. Oklahoma is a deserving champion, Missouri is the second best team and Nebraska handled the clubs below it with ease, but couldn't cope with the two above.

In losing to Oklahoma and Missouri, it can be said that the Huskers were a better team than the scores indicate — at least that they had the potential to play better than they did in their two losses—but the Tigers and the Sooners had the poise, toughness and ability to make the big plays.

Near Miracle

While Devaney was able to create something of a miracle, he could not — and was not expected to, by the way — replace all the divots of defeatism and lack of confidence generated by years of losing in one short season.

But the Cornhuskers were able to whip clubs they should have beaten — something that ranks as a major step toward restoring consistency in Nebraska football.

If nothing else, Devaney, his assistants and the 1962 Cornhuskers proved beyond a shadow of a doubt that Nebraska is capable of producing winning football teams.

This constitutes a solid foundation for future building.

Bowl Scene

While the Big 8 race is concluded, main interest shifts to the bowl scene.

As in 1961, the loop will have two post-season entries. Nebraska, by losing to Oklahoma, dropped out of the cast which now stars the Sooners and Missouri.

Oklahoma, of course, draws the top assignment — the Miami Orange Bowl — but the Sooners also draw an awesome opponent, Paul (Bear) Bryant's rugged Alabamians from the Southeastern Conference.

Missouri, too, will have its hands full at the Dec. 22 Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston, Tex.

Dan Devine's Tigers must tackle Bobby Dodd's Georgia Tech team — the only outfit to beat Alabama to date (the Crimson Tide meets Auburn this week.)

Colorful Campaign

All things considered, it was an interesting, exciting and colorful Big 8 gridiron campaign: Oklahoma back on top, favored Missouri barred from the throne room and — most of all, from Nebraska's standpoint, anyway — the return to other-than-doormat status of the Cornhuskers.

There were other brawlers, too: Iowa State's unexpected dip, Nebraska's 40-14 shocker over Kansas, the Jayhawks' rebound to the Missouri, 3-3, plus some dandy radio and TV talks by KU's Jack Mitchell and MU's Dan Devine.

But the last week's "Hat's Off" salute must be fired in the direction of Colorado. Bud Davis, who moved from the alumni office to the football office when the Buffs' were in desperate straits, had less weapons than an Indian in the Himalayas.

And while his resignation seemed cut and dried, he bowed out in grand style — and left the impression that alumni secretaries can coach football, particularly if they've been coaches before alumni secretaries — by blasting a good Air Force team, 34-10.

Yup, it was a good football season.

Two Important Grid Events On Tap Today

Two important events are on the University of Nebraska calendar today, even though the football season has ended.

At noon, Coach Bob Devaney will be on hand at the Lincoln Hotel for the windup session of the highly-successful Extra Point Club Quarterback Luncheons.

Movies of the Oklahoma finale, revelling in the unexpected pleasure of an 8-2 season by the QBs and hints about the future will keynote the noon session.

Monday night the annual University Club Gridiron banquet will see members of the 1962 Husker team honored.

Rip Engle, coach of the Penn State Nittany Lions — who will make a decision on accepting a Gator Bowl bid today — will be the guest speaker at the University Club affair.

Penn State wound up the season with a 9-1 record, losing only to Army, 9-6.

Nebraska seniors will be presented the traditional wrist-watches during the Uni Club program.

Browns Shatter Steelers, 35-14

Cleveland (P)—Quarterback Frank Ryan passed for 3 touchdowns Sunday as Cleveland defeated Pittsburgh, 35-14, and vaulted over the Steelers and Washington Redskins to second place in the National Football League's Eastern Conference.

Jim Brown, the loop's rushing leader the last 5 years, scored 3 times to run his total to 15-3 shy of his all-time mark. He counted the first one on a 34-yard pass from Ryan and plunged 1 yard for two more in a wild 4th period. The big fullback carried 19 times for 110 yards. But Ryan, gaining stature weekly after taking over for injured Jim Ninoowski, put on a real show as he completed 21 of 33 tosses for 284 yards, no interceptions and the 3 scores.

Veteran Bobby Layne quarterbacked the Steelers all the way and completed 13 of 23 for 155 yards. But both Pittsburgh scores came on the conversion.

The Browns went a long way for all their scores. The drives covered 80 yards in 9 plays, 65 in 8, 62 in 7, 80 in 7 and 53 in 7.

Gary Collins caught a 12-yarder for one counter and Ray Renfro made a sensational end-zone catch on a 31-yard toss from Ryan to round out the Cleveland scoring.

Joe Womack went 15 yards for Pittsburgh's first score, winding up a 59-yard advance. When the center's pass on the extra-point try was mussed up, kicker Lou Michaels raced it into the end zone for the conversion.

That left Pittsburgh behind 14-7, but the Browns scored 3 times in the closing period, while Pittsburgh counted once on a 6-yard plunge by John Henry Johnson just after Layne had hit John Burrell with a 42-yard pass.

The Steelers — winners of their last 3 games — had some bad luck on a pair of fumbles by Dick Hoak.

The Browns also lost a scoring chance when Jim Brown fumbled on the Steeler 2 and John Reiger recovered.

Carter Wins World's Title For 5th Time

Chicago (P) — Don Carter of St. Louis, who had won 4 of 5 previous titles, came from behind in the final 3 games Sunday to win his 5th World's Invitational Bowling Title and $7,500.

Carter, 36, trailed the 1961 runner-up, Ray Bluth of St. Louis, by slightly more than one Petersen point after losing the first game of the position round, 205-167.

Then the stoop-shouldered former minor league baseball player found the range and won the next two games from Bluth, a former high school fullback, 238-205 and 234-179.

This left Carter more than two points ahead with only one game to play in the 100-game marathon which began 11 days ago. Although he lost the last game, 215-181, Carter still finished on top in Petersen points with 320.46 to 320.17 for Bluth.

Carter finished the 64-game finals with an average of 220 per game. Bluth received $3,750 for his second place finish while Dick Webster of St. Louis had 313.49 points for 3rd place and $2,000.

Mrs. Marion Ladewig, the 48-year-old grandmother from Grand Rapids, Mich., won the women's title and top prize of $4,000.

McNamara Boosts Spending For RS70

Washington (AP)—The Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, consistently cool towards the RS70 reconnaissance-strike bomber, Sunday let the Air Force have another $50 million for the program.

A Pentagon announcement also said that a restudy of the project, as ordered by the last Congress, has been completed and that "recommendations were submitted to the President last week."

The statement did not say what the recommendations were.

Radar Work

The additional money, taken from funds voted by Congress but over which McNamara has kept tight control, will be used for development work on the highly complex radar and other units intended for the reconnaissance missions of the plane, the Pentagon said.

The new allotment raises the estimated total cost of the development program to $1,350,000,000, the statement said.

Release of the additional funds for the RS70 (previously known as the B70) came as Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., said he was deeply concerned because the United States has ceased production of all bombers and is not developing the supersonic bomber.

Engle, in a letter to Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., urged that the Senate Armed Services Committee take up as soon as possible next year the question of developing the RS70 as a weapons system.

Production of the B52 and the B58 bombers ceased last month, Engle said, while development of the new supersonic weapon "has been stretched out and delayed" despite urgings of Congress.

A "full presentation of the results of the study," based on data furnished by the Air Force between last June 2 and Oct. 1, will be made to the armed services and appropriations committees of Congress during hearings on the fiscal 1964 military budget, the department announced.

Objections

McNamara raised objections early in his administration to the RS70 (then called the B70) for which General Curtis E. LeMay, air force chief of staff and former head of the Strategic Air Command, is prime advocate.

McNamara's objection had been based on the ground that by the time a fully operational force of RS70 planes can be developed, tested and built more than 1500 missiles able to reach enemy targets will be in the nation's arsenal. McNamara has declared that to go into production of the RS70 now would be a "serious waste of the nation's resources."

However, he has gone along with the plan to continue development by building and test flying 3 planes which would lack some of the features that LeMay wants to see in the aircraft.

Over Requests

Congress, for several years, in both the present and previous administrations, voted more money for the RS70 loan than was requested — for use — by the Defense Department.

Rep. Carl Vinson, D-Ga., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, has been one of the leaders in the fight in Congress to get the plane into production.

Some estimates place the eventual cost of a complete RS70 system as high as $10 billion.

Fantastic Speed

The RS70 would have a speed of about 2000 miles per hour, plus intercontinental range, even without midair refueling. As first conceived, the plane would have been purely a bomber.

However, the idea evolved into a plan for an aircraft capable of making sweeps deep into enemy territory to spot targets and check up on
